VIRGINIA POLITICS.

The Readjusters and Republicans Making Common Cause Against the Bourbons-How the ex-Confeds Take Care of Their Wounded Heroes-Circus in Town.

WINCHESTER, VA., Aug. 2,-With the nercury "up among the nineties," and your corre-pondent swinging haily in a hammock in the hade of a tail maple tree, listening to the busy turn of a hive of bees in the neighborhood and the plaintive call of the morning dove in the dis-tance, it is pretty hard to get one's mind fixed on politics, and much harder to write intelligently on linginia politics. In fact, I think it would take a Philadelphia lawyer to understand and explain Virginia politics at the present time. First, there is the old Bourbon Democracy, that never learned a new thing nor ever did a wise one. Then there is the Readjuster or Mahone party, with liberal views, in favor of progress, a free ballot, and a air count, and, leaving out their State debt plank, their platform is broad enough for all Republicans to stand on. Then come the Republicans, who are

Outs, as they are called here ONLY POLLED NINETY-RIGHT VOTES out of nine hundred in the city of Winchester at the spring election. There is quite an excitement just now in regard to the Lynchburg convention among all parties. A convention will be held to-morrow to elect delegates to that convention, and the Bourbons are auxious for the Republicans to olect Straight-Outs, and are giving their advice freely right and left. The opinion seems to prevail among the more intelligent and most reliable Republicans that it would be folly to put a Straight-Out Republican candidate in the field, as he would sure to meet with defeat; but if they indorse Colonel Cameron and Lewis, the Readjuster can didates, they could elect them by an overwhelm

THE READJUSTER AND REPUBLICAN vote in the State is about 120,000, while the Bour-bon Democracy is only 22,000. The Republicans of this county are split, and there will be two conentions here to-morrow. The regular chairman f the county committee, Mr. A. C. Brown, has sued his call in accordance with the rules govraing the Republican party, and nine-tenths of he Republicans in the county will respond to this all, and it is thought new will elect coalition. legates to the Lynchburg convention. About half a dozen Straight-Outs mot two weeks ago in the office of a Bourbon lawyer here in town and elected a Mr. Solenberger chairman. Mr. S. is a member of the Republican county committee The chairman of this then issued a call for the Straight-Outs to elect dilegates to the convention; so there's likely to be two sets of delegates from here. It is believed, however, that Mr. Selenberger's "happy halfdozen" will give the Lynchburg convention very little trouble, as they will not be admitted. The Republicans joined forces with the Readjusters here in the hist spring elections and beat the Bourbons at of their boots. In consequence the offices of the town were equally divided between the Republicans and Readjusters, and Republicans hold office here now for the first time since the town passed from control of the Government, in and are working together admirably to defeat their common enemy, the "courbon Democracy. But enough of politics in this letter. I will keep rou posted as to the convention to-morrow. The cus a rived in town to-day—horse, foot, and agoon. Sells Bros.' every conceivable mode of locomotion. Two ladies on the back of a single horse, carrying bables, was no uncommon sight. Men who fought with Jackson and Early, in butternut suits, pants inside their boots, with long Mexican spurs and slouch hats, and riding-whip in their hand, were cen at every corner. They shook hands with the judges," the "colonels," and the "captains," and took their "mountain dew"—three fingers at a time—without flinching. They all wore gloves. A gentleman in Virginia without gloves would be like a ship without a rudder. They would rather so without socks than without gloves. I got into conversation with one of these gentlemen. After telling me he be-longed to the Thirty-ninth Virginia Infantry and did some tall fighting with old "Stonewall," he past when human beings wound up by saying he was captured at Spottsyl-vania Court-House by Hancock's Second Corps on the 12th day of May, 1864. He seemed delighted when I told him that I was one of the Second people of the Valley, they take good care of their wounded soldiers. Every office of importance is alled with them. It would be useless for any one to run against a wounded confederate soldier here and you never would see one begging. E. L. G.

MRS. DELIA STUART PARNELL. Interesting Conversation With the Mother of the Great Agitator. A representative of THE REPUBLICAN was yesterday accorded the privilege of paying his respects to Mrs. Parnell and Miss Ford at their parlors in the Ebbitt House. The former lady is about fifty years of age—although one would scarcely arrive at that high estimate save from the fact that her distinguished son is above thirty-of large, yet deliente features, robust frame, and cheer ful mien. In general, the casual acquaintance migh be struck with that air of Vere de Vere repose which marks the distinguished lady's bearing, but speak with her of the cause so near her heart, or bright, the languid air vanishes magically, and she looks the impersonation of the noble matron, the Cornelia of our day, who rightfully considers her best jewel on earth to be her devoted son.

Miss Ford, one of the great workers in the cause upon this side of the At-lantic, is an exceedingly pleasant talker, who, however, believes in work-not mere talk. This lady is especially anxious to secure the active co-operation of Irish-American ladies in the struggle for the amelioration of the condition of

"What about the infernal machines?" began the reporter, addressing the elder lady. The mother of the great obstructionist threw up her hands and raised her eyes in hely horror.

as to the use of death-dealing machines in England or in Ireland." "In Ireland I could understand it. Still even there it is a foolish policy. Its folly is apparent when we consider that, in the absence of any OVERT ACTS OF THEASEN, the British authorities are even manufacturing canards about the storing of fire-arms, the under mining of public buildings, and a promiseuous slaughter of landlords. White I am and ever have en against violence and the shedding of blood, the fact yet remains that the general peacefulness of the Irish people, their keen religious feeling, and, above all, their deep regard for human life, have been construed by the English government for centuries into an infinite capacity for being imposed upon. If England does not soon become alive to a decent sense of what is just and right forces are actively at work calculated to arouse their victims to resistance; but the time is not ret. At present our revolution must be a revolution of ideas, an appeal to that force infinitely more effective than dynamite, the force of the cullight-ened public opinion of Christendem. I rate one well-considered, outspoken editorial as of greater benefit to Ireland than a whole arsenal of bombs. sjectiles, and torpedoes." At this point Mrs. mell expressed a wish to see the late papers,

"Will the Lords pass the bill?"
"Without a doubt they must. It is a bitter humilation to the ultra Conservative members—I use the word in its British political signification—but rejecting the bill would, as they well know, provoke a too searching inquiry into the necessity of their own existence as a legislative entity.

"And how would the bill work if passed?"
"Well, you know the old law about half the loaf. Let the poor, rack-rented creatures get the half and it may strengthen them to demand the other. Of this you may rest assured that as long as a real grievance exists there will remain those to denounce it, a million cocreton acts to the contrary notwithstanding. Thank God the day is forever

> THE POTOMAC BOAT CLUB. Description of the New Boat-House-His-

The new boat-house of the Potomac Bost Club will be formally opened this afternoon. A full description of this building, which is second to no bost-house in the country, has already been published in THE REPUBLICAN, but a few facts in reference to it, now that it is completed and ready for occupancy, will be of particular interest gun range did a very flourishing business, as it after this time. The building is situated at the foot of High street, in Georgetown, and is sixty by excellent chance of displaying their skill, and ninety-three feet, with a tower on the southwest corner sixty feet in height, from which a most magnificent view of the river can be obtained. Entering, the ground floor, of course, contains the boats of the club, now some fifty in number, but many of the members have not yet brought their boats in. Every convenience for the proper bestowal and care of these boats, from the paper shell "Earl Dufferin," in which the champion Hanlan rowed, now owned by Mr. C. W. Balley, to the long end graceful ten-oared barge, is apparent. At the north end there are two stairways leading to the locker-room, and at the south there are stairs leading to the tower, while in the centre is a commo dious main stairway leading to the ladies' room the dancing hall, and the balcony. THE LOCKER-BOOM contains one hundred lockers, which are of ample size, and are locked with patent combination locks, each member having his own particular key. hought that a minority of the delegates elected to-day to the Republican State Convention, which meets in Lynchburg on the 19th, will favor a Straight-Out Republican ticket on a debt-paying platform.

The dancing hall is 31 by tofore been described. The dancing hall is 31 by 50 feet, and the walls and ceiling are handsomely frescoed. The designs upon the ceiling are most artistic. On the north is an excellent representation of the Potomac lauding, while at the south is a charming sketch of a view of the river from the window. The balcony is 24 by 69 feet and capable of accommodating a large number of fair guests. HISTORY OF THE CLUB. HISTORY OF THE CLUB.

The Potomac Boat Club was organized in 1869 with about twelve members, and Malcolm Scaton was the first president. Its first boat-house was a mere shauty, which was gradually enlarged as the the clab grew in membership and prosperity. Finally the old building could be patched up no longer, and the present commodious and cleans building was erected. Of its original membership about half are still connected with the clab. In the ladies' parlor is hung a picture of the crew that rowed in the old the countries the Adoland. In 1870 which comaix-cared gig, the Adelaide, in 1870, which comprised George Fox, Colonel Frank Jones, Wilford McLeod, Will Wheatley, Frank Miller, Ed Derrick, and J. H. Gordon, coxswain. The membership has now increased to about one hundred, and there are also about forty inactive and honorary members. officers of the club are P. T. Dodge, president; Will Wheatley, vice-president; J. D. Doyle, secretary; George I. Smallwood, assistant secretary; Ed. Derrick, treasurer; Frank Miller, captain; S. E. Whosder, first lieutenant; W. C. McKinney, secon cutenant. The programme for

THE OPENING CRREMONIES will consist of probably a four-cared race and s single-scull race. In the first a picked crew will row—the crew which won the Richmond cup— and in the latter probably R. W. Morgan, C. W. and in the latter probably R. W. Morgan, C. W. Bailey, and J. L. Cropley will contest. There will be vocal music by the Apollo Glee Club, under the leadership of Dr. E. S. Kimball, and then the formal presentation of the boat-house to the club will be made, after which dancing will be indulged in to the music of Schreeder's orchestra. The executive committee, into whose hands have been intrusted all the arrangements, consists of Mr. J. J. Hollister, challman, Messis. Will. Wheatley, Frank M. Fearson, Mayhow Plater, and George L. HUSTLED DOWN THE STAIRCASE.

An Extraordinary Scene in Westminster Hall-A Row that Created Intense Excitement-Tha ex-Hember of Parliament Strug-

London, Aug. 3 .- An immense crowd of people assembled outside of the palace yard to day and cheered Mr. Bradlaugh when he entered the yard on his way to Westminster Hall, some time before the assembling of the House of Commons. On Mr. Bradlaugh attempting to enter the House he was quietly removed from the lobby, and es-corted by the police into the yard, where he stood ouversing with a friend.

him from the House, whereas he had been re-moved from the lobby, and he moved that the officials were therein exceeding their authority. The Speaker replied that he considered it his duty to order Mr. Bradlaugh's removal, and added:
"The door of the House is closed." The cheers of the crowd outside the palace yard were sudible inside the house.

here is a

BAND OF DEVOTED MEN, backed by followers equally as devoted, who have been striving for years to better the condition of their constituents and of their country, and almost their constituents and of their country, and almost evaded the police, endeavored to force an ennow be treated as having no more right to enter the House than a stranger. Sir Stafford Northcote indorsed Mr. Gladstone's view. While Sir Wilfred from the doors, when he was taken in charge by six policemen, still resisting strenuously, his cont creatures into eternify. Such things are well six policemen, still resisting strenuously, his coat calculated to undo whatever of good has being torn in the struggle. The Speaker ruled been accomplished in all these years by the en-agents. I believe I understand the feelings, the hopes, and the aims of the Land League party, and you may say for them and for me that such tactics as placing dynamite on board of occaniactics as placing dynamics and dynamics of the Land League party, described how Mr. Bradlaugh was brought uown to the place yard in a fainting condition. He thought such as the place of the place yard in a fainting condition. He thought such as the place yard in a fainting condition. He thought such as the place yard in a fainting condition. He thought such as the place yard in a fainting condition. He thought such as the place yard in a fainting condition and the place yard in a fainting condition. He thought such as considered to the opposition to reconsider their former peaked to the opposition to reconsider the peaked to the opposition to reconsider the peaked to the opposition to reconsider the peaked to present difficulties. He was called to order for relevancy.

Lord John Manners (Conservative) said that Mr.

Bright's attitude was calculated to encourage Mr. Bradlaugh, who had necessitated his forcible re-moval by attempting a forcible entry. An amendment to Mr. Labouchere's motion, de-laring that the House approve the conduct of the Speaker and of the officials under his orders, was accepted by Mr. Gladstone and Sir Stafford Northcore, and was passed. A number of Liberal nemers quitted the House before the vote was aken and ironical cheers. Mr. Bradlaugh, after his expulsion, went to Bow street for a summons against the police.
After his first repulse Mr. Bradlaugh remained sometime standing in the palace yard with his arms folded and three policemen in front of him barring his way to the House. ANOTHER ACCOUNT.

LONDON, Aug. 3.-Mrs. Aunie Bessant aud two daughters of Mr. Bradhaugh were present in West-minister Hall. Two hundred extra policemen were on duty. The statement that the first removal of Mr. Bradlaugh on his attempting to enter the House was effected quietly appears to be an error. He made the attempt not after the business of the House commenced. He informed Mr. Erskine, deputy sergeant-at-arms, that he was there by the mandate of his constituents, and would not yield to anything illegal. Upon Mr. Erskine putting out his hand to prevent his passing Mr. Bradlaugh pushed him, and was immediately seized by an usher, with whom he grappled flercely, shouting "If any one dares to hinder me!" He was bustled down the members' staircase, grappling with the police and ushers, but no blows were struck. He was ghastly pale when he appeared in the palace yard, and was still struggling with the police and almost faint-ing. A glass of water was brought and his face was bathed. He threatened to come to the House was bained. In threatened to come to the loose again with such a force that the police would be compelled to arrest him. The police closed the palace yard at half-past twelve p. m. The minority on the resolution of the House as amended, declaring that the House approved the conduct of the Speaker and the official under the orders, consisted of Messrs. the officials under his orders, consisted of Mesars Diggar, Finnegan, Cowan, Earp, Broadhurst Burt, and Sommers, and the tellers Messrs, La bouchere and Ashton W. Dilke, Among the Liberals who abstained from voting were Mr. Bright and Sir. Charles Dilke. The summonses against the police applied for by Mr. Bradlaugh at the Bow Street Police Court were refused, but the magistrate advised him to prepare the informa-tion in reference to summonsed desired for assault. LONDON, July 3.—Mr. Bradlaugh, in addressing police, but that he intended to go to the House of Commons again, choosing his own time.

Infantry-Who Were There.

The second complmentary excursion of the Washington Light Infantry Company to Marshall Hall last night was a most enjoyable nifair. About 575 of the invited guests accepted the invitations, and presented themselves on the Arrowsmith before the hour of starting. The music being exceptionably good, the dancers made thing on the shed were Lieutenant Cash and Cor noral Ellis, both of whom have carned a position on the team for the next-rifle match at Glymont. On the return trip the Washington Light Infantry Quartette, consisting of Messrs. J. Milton Buchanau, W. E. Morgan, Mangus Kocchiling, and Henry Boswell, assisted by Mr. Robert Yeatman and Miss Mamic McCallam, rendered a number of very well executed musical selections, which added greatly to the enjoyment of the executsionists. The party was a very select one.

Board of Fire Commissioners was held last even-ing, at which only routine business was trans-acted. The report of the chief engineer for the past month showed that the less by fires had been about $3,000, which was almost covered by insur-ance. At an entertainment at Jackson Grove Camp the programme included singing by Messrs. E. M. Buchanan, W. H. Daniels, H. A. Foresman,

H. Adams, W. C. McCauley, J. Maudaley, Colonel Rogers, and Mrs. J. H. Travers; plano music by Professor J. P. T. Lang, cornet solo by Mr. Gibson, recitations by Dr. N. F. White and E. P. INVESTIGATING DEMOCRATS. Governor Hamilton Trying to Parify His

Party in Maryland. BALTIMORE, Aug. 3.—Governor Hamilton commenced to-day at the City Hall the investigation of charges against a number (seven in all) of the registers of voters of this city charged with incompetency and misconduct in office. The specifications allege the misconduct to be that the registration lists of voters are not such as are re quired by law, in not having the residences of th voters set opposite their names; that the spatied to strike from the lists the names of persons known to them not to be qualified voters and of persons removed or dead, and that on account of such failure they are guilty of incompetency or misconduct All these registers were nominated by Governor Ham. liton and confirmed, as required by law, by the senate of Maryland. The investigation by the Governor is attracting much attention not only in the city, but throughout the State, and the large armory hall in which the trial was confmer was well filled with politicians and others. Able counsel are employed for the presecution and the defense. It is charged that this investigation of the registers has grown out of the fight between the several Democratic factions in the city. All the registers are Democrats. The investigation will probably continue for several days.
